The Big American Liner Stranded at Long Branch.

SHE GOES ASHORE DURING A FOG

Passengers All Safely Landed and the Steamer May Be Pulled Off in a Couple of Tides-The Campania Also Has a Narrow Escape from Going Aground.

LONG BRANCH. Jan. 27 .- The great American line steamship St. Paul, which went ashore off East Long Branch about 2 o'clock on Saturday morning during a dense fog, was moved about 159 feet further off shore yesterday afternoon by the wrecking tugs which are still working to ent her off the bar. The passengers were ten off by the lifeboats and conveyed to tug George Starr, which took them to ·w York. The St. Paul has a passenger list made up of sixty-five first cabin, seventy-five second cabin and 125 steerage pas-

President C. A Gri-com and all the other representatives of the International Navigation company, popularly known as the American line, have taken a decidedly more hopeful view of the situation of the stranded steamer St. Paul. They place great reliance on the Merritt and Chapman Wrecking companies, who have charge of the pulling off the big steamer, and they hope to have the St. Paul at her berth at the foot of Vesey street, New York, before the end of this week.

President Griscom remained on board esterday, and was visited by some repreentatives of insurance companies and underwriters, who were interested in the safety of the ship. Two of these gentlemen, who refused to give their names, or the companies to which they belonged, told the reporters that they believed the man who was making the soundings with the lead having mistaken the mark for seven fathoms and announcing it as seventeen fathom.

It is safe to say that there is scarcely a person who resides within twenty miles of this place who has not come to see the big ocean racer lying in her helpless state within a stone's throw of the Grand View hotel veranda. When the trains arrived from New York yesterday they brought a host of Gothamites who were anxious to see how the big liner looked, and the majority of them wondered how on earth she could possibly have reached the spot in which she is stuck hard and fast.

The press representatives were not allowed to board the St. Paul, but one of their number managed to elude the watchful officers at the gangway and succeeded in making his way to the captain's cabin. Captain Jamison, he said, looked rather blue when he spoke to him. In response to the reporter's inquiries the captain said:

"It is not true that any of the plates are sprung, and the vessel is all right. There is no sign of leaking. The Chapman and Merritt people who are in charge of the bringing off of the ship are sanguine of success, and I am confident that she will move off very soon, perhaps after a couple

A report is current that the St. Paul and the Cunarder Campania had been racing, and the latter nearly went aground.

but was warned off.

Borden A Jeffrey, a wrecking master, no lives at Elberon, said today that no matter what the Cunard people say to the contrary he is positive that the Campania was aground at 2:30 o'clock in the morning for fully half an hour right back of the late George W. Childs' cottage, at Elberon. He says that his wife also saw the Campania, and they were both attracted by the steamer's warning whistle, which signified that she was in trouble. He said there was little or no fog at the time, and after the Cunarder, which was head on, had backed off, with the aid of her propellers, she anchored outside until 9

When asked if it was positive that there could be a fog at East Long Branch sufficient to confuse the St. Paul's captain and no fog two miles to southward Jeffrey replied that he could not say, but he was steadfast in his assertion that there was no fog off Elberon, and that the Campania had run aground there.

The St. Paul was built as one of the first of two of a fleet of fast first class ocean steamships which should fly the American flag, and with special reference to naval service in case of war. The other was the St. Louis Both ships were built in 1891 by the Cramps, of Philadelphia, for the International Navigation company, of Philadelphia. They are the largest vessels ever constructed in America. Each of the vessels carries 320 first class and 200 second class passengers and 900 emigrants. The St. Paul has been the victim of several minor accidents. Even before she got into the water she had one. When the

CORBETT KNOCKED DOWN.

A Philadelphia Fireman Gives the Actor-Pugllist a Pretty Lively Tussle.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—Champion James J. Corbett, while playing at the National theater Saturday night, became involved in a fight with 'a member of the Philadelphia Fire department named William H. Murphy, during which blows were struck on both sides and the actorpugilist was unceremoniously tumbled down a flight of stairs.

Murphy was detailed at the National and while passing Corbett's room smelled eigarette smoke. He rapped at the door and as Corbett opened it Murphy observed him put the cigarette behind him. Murphy told him it was against the rules to smoke, and Corbett denied that he was. Murphy insisted he was.

Corbett then forced him from the room and locked the door. Murphy rapped for admittance. The door was opened suddenly and he received a stunning blow in the face which knocked him from his feet. He arose quickly, however, and landed one on Corbett's mouth, drawing blood. The men then grappled, and reaching a stairway Murphy caught Corbett and sent him sliding to the lower floor. Here they again grappled, when some of the stage hands and the company separated them. The fireman is about 25 years of age and is of medium build.

Lancaster's Third Incendiary Fire LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 27 .- For the third night in succession the fire department was called out last night to battle with a stubborn blaze, this time on North Queen street, in the heart of the business section of the city. The furniture and upholstery warerooms occupied by Aaron Hertzler were on fire, the flames starting in the basement of the building, in which a large stock of furniture, bedding, etc., was stored, all of which was ruined by fire and water. The flames were confined to this part of the building, although the stock of Eichholtz & Bowman, who occupy the adjoining store room in the same building as a sporting goods emporium, suffered from water, which flooded the cellar. The fire was undoubtedly incendiary, as were those which preceded it.

Sensational Duel in a Hotel.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 27.-A highly sensational shooting affray occurred in the fashionable Arlington botel at Hot Springs Friday afternoon, the details of which have hitherto been carefully suppressed. The circumstances attending the affair as related by eye witnesses is to the effect that Colonel S. H. Stitt, one of the proprietors of the Arlington, and Colonel Abner L. Gaines, a guest, became involved in a dispute when both drew their revolvers. A hotel detective took a hand at this juneture and promiseuous firing ensued in which Abner Gaines was wounded below the knee Gaines resides in London, England, and is wealthy.

President Tyler's Eldest Son Dead. WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.-John Tyler, the eldest son of President Tyler, died here yesterday, aged 76 years. Mr. Tyler has resided here for the past twenty years. During the latter part of the period he was employed in the redemption bureau of the treasury department, having had charge of the destruction of the bank notes sent in for redemption. For many years he had taken an active and vigorous interest in temperance work, and had been a practical and powerful help to the cause. The remains will be interred hero Wednesday.

THE WEEK IN CONGRESS

Spirited Discussions on Our Foreign Relations Anticipated.

THE NEW SILVER SUBSTITUTE

For the Bond Bill and the Monroe Doctrine Declaration Will Continue to Be the Chief Subjects for Consideration in WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The week in the house promises a spirited discussion of our foreign relations. It opened today with the presentation of the resolutions of the foreign affairs committee on Armenia, and will be continued in connection with the consideration of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, which will be taken up immediately afterward. This bill will open the gates to a general debate on foreign affairs and complications in all parts of the world.

The China-Japanese war, American missions in China, the Venezuelan dispute, the Corinto incident, the outrages in Armenia, with all their attendant European complications, the invasion of the Transvaal and the arrest of Americans at Johannesburg by the Boer government, the Alaskan boundary dispute, the award of the Behring sea commission, the Cuban war for independence, the Waller incident and the Bayard speeches may become fruitful topics of debate during the consideration of this bill. The general impression is that the whole week will be consumed in disposing of it, but if any time remains it will probably be devoted to the District of Columbia appropriation bill. which the appropriations committee expeets to have ready on Wednesday or

The silver substitute for the bond bill and Monroe doctrine declaration will continue to be the chief subjects for consideration in the senate. Senator Jones, of Arkansas, in charge of the silver bill, has given notice that he will attempt to secure a vote on the bill on Thursday and that he will ask the senate to remain in session Thursday night until this is accomplished. It is considered probable by the friends of the bill that he may not succeed at that time in getting a vote, and that this may not come until Friday or Saturday. There are a number of senators who desire to speak on the bill who have not had an opportunity, and they will be afforded that privilege before the vote is decided upon. These include Senators Hill, Cockrell, Bacon, Nelson, Hansbrough, Mitchell, of Oregon, and others.

- The silver bill is expected to pass, but even its friends do not place the majority at exceeding five votes, while others insist that with affirmative votes from both the Utah senators the majority will not exceed. three. The bill is so radical that the more conservative silver men probably will cast their votes against it. Mr. Thurston is the only senator who has given notice of a solution, but there are other senators prepared to speak on this when opportunity shall offer. Senator Davis, the author of the resolution, will be absent from the city during the week, and consequently the resolution will not be pressed to a

The friends of the revenue tariff bill will make an effort to get that measure into the senate in some shape during the week. A meeting of the finance commit-tee will be held tomorrow. If Senator Jones, of Nevada, is present at that meeting his vote will decide whether the bill shall be reported favorably or adversely. If he is not present it is probable that the committee will inform the senate of its failure to reach an agreement and make a report without recommendation.

The first business of the session today is the induction of the Utah sepators, Messrs. Cannon and Brown, into office. They will be conducted to the vice president by sitting members, and after taking the oath of office will draw lots for the classes to which they shall be assigned. The senate is divided into three classes fixed by the time of the expiration of their terms of office. One of the Utah senators will be eligible for the '97 class and the other to the '99 class. The one who draws into the first class will serve until the 4th of March, 1897, and the one who secures admussion to the other class will serve until the same date in 189). This proceeding will be conducted upon the basis of resolutions which will be offered by Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, to whom the duty falls as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections.

If Mr. DuPont, of Delaware, is awarded the seat from that state there will be ninety members of the senate, and all three classes will contain the same number of senators-thirty each,

Since that time, however, he has manifested great activity in the discharge of the duties of his office, which have been more than usually onerous on account of the complications in European affairs which have more or less demanded the attention and care of the diplomatic representatives of all nations. His death will come as a great shock to official and social circles here in Berlin, where he was a great favor-

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

A Man of Unquestioned Ability and High Social Attainments. Theodore Runyon was born at Somer -- ville, N. J., Oct. 25, 1822. He graduated from Yale college in 1842, and in 1846 was admitted to the bar. In 1853 be was made city attorney, and in 1856 city councillor of Newark, N. J., a position be retained until in 1864 he became mayor of the city. He was appointed in 1856 commissioner to revise the military laws of New Jersey. and in 1857 was made brigadier general, and subsequently major general of the New Jersey National Guard. At the ourbreak of the civil war he was placed to command of a New Jersey brigade of volunteers. In 1865 he was the Democratic candidate for governor of his state, but was not elected. In 1873 to 1887 he was chancellor of New Jersey.

In March, 1893, he was appointed by President Cleveland United States minister to Germany and shortly afterwards was made ambassador in accordance with a law of congress that the United States representative in Germany should be raised to the rank of ambassador reciprocally with the similar action on the part of the German government concerning its representative in the United States. degree of LL D. was conferred upon him by Yale, Rutgers and Wesleyan colleges.

Mr. Runyon was the successor of William Walter Phelps, who had held the place of German minister for four years. He was a gallant soldier and Fort Runyou on the Alexandria railroad at the south end of Long bridge near Washington, D. C , is a perpetuation of his name. At the time of the appointment of Mr. Runyon it was remarked as being that of the office seeking the man. His name had been presented to the president by Senators McPherson and Smith, and he knew nothing of the application which was being made in his behalf until he was asked by letter if he would accept. The unequivocal indersement which he received from the senators and the high reputation enjoyed by him in the state led the president to make the appointment without hesitation. He was a man of unquestioned ability and high social attainments. During his service in Berlin the most important matter that has been pending between the United States and Germany

WHY THOUSANDS OF INDIANS MELT-ED AWAY BEFORE FORTY MEN.

Captain McCabe Knew the Sionx Better Than They Knew Themselves, and They Knew the Captain and His Men Were Dead Shots and Also Scalp Takers.

In the pioneer days, to reach Montana from Cheyenne, in Wyoming, required a roundabout journey that involved a double crossing of the Rocky mountains, with a change of base at Salt Lake City. The United States government brought about a better condition of travel by constructing a trail through the Gallatin valley along the course of the Gunpowder river, reaching around the base of the mountains in a curvilinear form, which avoided the heights of the Rockies. To protect this route from marauding Indians three forts were built—Reno, Phil Kearny and C. F. Smith. These were garrisoned by United States troops. In 1866 the murderous Sloux from the course up through the Gallatin valley and into Montana. It was marked by rapine and plunder. They besieged Fort Reno and killed many of its garrison, including a brother of A. K. McClure. They environed Fort Phil Kearny, and wiped from the face of the earth every human being whose walls it failed to protect. Then they surrounded Fort C. F. Smith, where 200 Union soldiers found themselves surrounded by more than 1,000 death seeking Indians. Escape seemed impossible. A conrier got word of this condition of affairs to General Hancock, who was then stationed at St. Paul, and he sent a messenger to the governor of Montana at Bozeman, calling upon him to relieve the besieged garrison. The chief executive of the territory of Montana at that time was Green Clay Smith, who, by the way, recently died in Washington, a Baptist clergyman. He had been a member of congress from Kentucky, but President Lincoln made him territorial governor of Montana. He was seated on the porch of his residence in Bozeman when Hancock's message was handed to him. To a visitor from the east, who was seated by his side, and who is authority for this narrative, he said:

Yellowstone valley pursued a sanguinary

"What in the name of heaven can I do? Fort C. F. Smith is 250 miles away. The country between here and there is filled with Sioux Indians. Our militia force consists of exactly 427 men. Not a man of them could reach Fort C. F. Smith alive I am absolutely powerless. However, I will send for Colonel Howie.''

At that time Colonel Nerl Howie was United States marshal for the territory of Montana. He mas typical frontiers-

It was to this mad that Governor Smith addressed himself, handing him General Hancock's dispatch and saying. "Colonel, we can't do anything for those poor devils in Fort C. F. Smith. We haven't enough men, and those we have couldn't get there. Am I not "No," said Colonel Howie quietly, without any exhibition of excitement and with the gentle voice of a woman. "There is no trouble about that, governor. We can arrange that matter and still leave the Montana frontier protected. I will need some picked men and a good leader for them. I think Captain Mc-Cabe is best fitted for this undertaking. I will go out and find him."

McCabe was another gentle voiced man with blue eyes. He didn't make much noise. He acted. He said to the governor: "Oh, yes; it is easy enough. But I'll need 40 of the best men I can select. You can keep the rest of your volunteer force here.

Governor Smith looked at him in amazement. So did the visitor from the fort. They both thought he was either insane or a braggart. Governor Smith said to him, "How in the name of heaven do you expect to raise the siege of Fort C. F. Smith with 40 men when you know that it is surrounded by more than 1,000 bloodthirsty Indians, and that the country between here and there is covered with thousands more of murderous Sioux?"

Said McCabe quietly: "Why, governor, it is easy enough. The Indians know us, and know that we know them better than they know themselves. You folks from the east have an idea that what you call Indian atrocities are simply unmeaning exhibitions of brutality; that scalping, for instance, is simply a form of torture. In that you are mistaken. The Indian believes that no man can go to the happy hunting ground-heaven we call it-who has been deprived of his hair. Their motive in scalping a victim is to carry out fiendish batred to its utmost by preventing him from having a happy hereafter. Therefore to deprive an Indian of his scalp is to rob him of his little he knew. hope of a happy hereafter. My men never kill an Indian without scalping him, and the Indians know that. The 40 men I will select for this expedition are unerring in their aim with the rifle. They can shoot 10 shots in 16 seconds, and every ball means a dead Indian, and evory dead Indian means a scalp, and every scalp means a warrior deprived eternally of a chance of ever reaching the happy hunting ground. My 40 men will walk from here to Fort C. F. Smith without firing a shot."

"Incredible," said Governor Smith. "Tine," said Captain McCabe. What was the result?

Forty men walked the 250 miles from Bozeman to Fort C. F. Smith. Indians watched them on every side. By days their progress was signaled by circling columns of smoke and by night by fire from mountain tops. But not a shot was fired. When they got within sight of Fort C. F. Smith, the 1,000 whooping Sioux who held the garrison in siege fled, and the 40 frontiersmen from Bozeman marched in and escorted the 200 Union soldiers back to the territorial capital without the loss of a life. Not a shot had been fired. Not a scalp har listed for the war was 8,667. been lifted -Philadelphia Times.

DIDN'T FIRE A SHOT. LOSS OF THE LUTINE.

MORE THAN $1,000,000 WENT TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

July Two Survivors Picked Up, and They Soon Died-Of the Vast Treasure $500, 000 Eas feen Recovered-Extensive Operations Under Way to Secure the Rest.

There is an oal cuchair in the office of Lloyde', in London, the great maritime fam, which has a strange and romantic history. It was made from the rudder of the king's ship Latine, which, in 1799, was wrecked in the North sea, with the largest amount of gold on board that ever went to the bottom. The secretary of Lloyds' recently gave to the public an interesting account of this wreck and of the numerous attempts to find her lost treasure. The Latine was a 36 gan frigate, captured from the French in 1793.

"In the autumn of 1799 it was necessary to send a large amount of specie zeross the North sea, and, as usual, application was made to the admiralty for a king's ship. This method of conveyance was thought the best guarantee for honesty, the best assurance against capture by foreign foes. Although some money is supposed to have been transmitted by the Lutine to pay British troops then serving in Holland, the bulk of the treasure was forwarded for purely commercial reasons.

"London merchants trading with north Germany in those days were in the habit of sending their goods and then drawing bills for their value upon Hamburg and other houses at so many mouths ahe at By the time the bills fell due the goods had been sold for cash, which was paid into the banks to meet engagements. But a protracted frost in the early part of 1790 had so long sealed the Elbe that the merchandise had been detained ice bound and could not be landed or disposed of in time.

"The London traders, to save their credit and e-cape the expense of protest, providing new bills and other probable commercial disasters, resolved to send eash across to cover their drafts as they came to maturity. So grave was the crisis, so great the sum to be embarked, that a king's ship was asked, and near-'v every banking firm in Lombard street dispatched a member in charge of its own cash contribution.

"Moreover, as many legal questions might arise, an experienced notary-his name is preserved, Mr. Schabrach-was secured to a company the party and advise in any difficulty. The precions curgo was insured principally at Lloyds'

"Various ideas, and nothing quite authoritative, prevail as to the exact amount on board the Lutine. Some say the specie, which was in coins of all sorts, gold and silver, guineas, golden pusters, double louis d'or. Sicilian goldpieces, silver plasters and dollars, also in gold and silver bars, reached a total value of upward of a million

"In October of that year the Lutine was ordered round to Yarmouth to take treasure on board and proceed to the Elbe. Her captain was one Lancelot Skynner, R. N., an officer of distinction, and no doubt his mission was much to his taste. The short voyage was likely to bring him considerable profit, for it was the rule to pay naval captains a commission of I her cent on the total value embarked.

"On the evening of the 5th of October the Lutine ley in Yarmouth roads with a merry party on board. The captain, no doubt in excellent spirits, had given a grand ball to the leading people in and about Yalmouth. The last of the guests had hardly gone ashore when peremptory orders came from the admiralty that the Lutine should forthwith go to sea. She sailed in the early morning of the 6th, and from that time very little was heard of her.

"It is, however, known that she steered a straight course for Caxhaven, at the mouth of the Elbe, wind strong from north northwest and greatly in favor. After landing passengers and treasure the Lutine was to convoy a fleet of merchantmen to the Baltic. "Soon after midnight, going free and under full press of sail, she struck on the outer bank of the island of Vlieland (Flyland), the next to the Texel and one of the ring of islands that hem the mouth of the Zeyder Zee. She must have been slightly ont of the course, and it is said that there was a strong lee tide running. Daring the night she went down with all on board. Another king' ship, the Arrow, Captain Portlock, was in company, but she could give no help, nor the 'cooks' or fishing boots of the coast, and when day broke there was no Lutine. Only two survivors were picked up by a Dutch lagger at daylight elinging to the wrealinge, one of whom died almost incre hately, and the other, Mr. Schabrach, the nocay, very soon afterward died, but not until Le had told the "Repeated chiats have been made to recover the money. In the year immediately following, when the whole thing was fresh and before the sand had silted or drifted over the week, the Dutchmen fished up some £55,000. Then more systematic and some really costly efforts were made, and by 1857-9 another £50,-000 was recorded.

"The present operations were begun m 1892 by an English engineer, Mr. Fletcher, who had been engaged on the Dutch coast in farsing a sunken diedger. He became interested in the Latine, and associating himself with another eminent engineer, Mr. Rimpple, they have approached the business in a novel way. Their idea is to clear the ship of sand, but to melese her in a central area or dock faced by or Ibags, which will prevent furthe; sitting, while they ransack the interior of the wreck by divers. This area is 200 feet in diameter, from which the sand will be removed by powerful suction oredaire." - New Orleans Times-Democrat.

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts— rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs. promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only. and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxa-tives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere. Syrupof Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfactio?

TOO ILL TO TESTIFY.

Little Minnie Swanger's Mother Now in a Critical Condition.

Altrona, Pa, Jan 27 .- Blair county never had a murder case that excited nore widespread interest than the poisoning of the McGregor family last Tuesday, by which one man was killed and three others are still suffering from the effects of the deadly coffee Hinnie Swanger, the bright-faced little girl who is charged with the dark tragedy, was identified by a drug clerk as the purchaser of a box of poison.

Owing to the fact that Mrs McGregor and Mrs. Johnson are still confined to their heds from the off ets of the poison and that the report of the chemical analysis which is being made by an expert in Philadelphia of the contents of McGregor's stomach is not ready, the coroner was compelled to adjourn the inquest for a few days.

Little Carrie Sill, the youngest one who drank the deadly coffee, has almost recovered. Mrs. John-on and Mrs. Mc-Gregor, though greatly improved and believed to be out of danger, are still very weak and confined to their beds Mrs. William Swanger, the mother of the girl charged with the crime, is dangerously ill, largely due to the excitement she has undergone since last Wedne-day. Ten days before the crime was committed she gave birth to a child and her condition is now

The continuation of the inquest amounts to only formal legal action, and the question of greatest interest is what will be done with Manni Swanger. The child is irresponsible, and should be taken care of in some homelike retreat. The physicians of Altoona are much interested in this pronounced type of the "degenerate," or inherently vicious nature, that is a case of mannity in the light of the knowledge of the little gerl's disposition from her emliest vears.

The Watchman Still Missing.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 27 .- The work of extinguishing the flumes which destroyed the Champion Blover and Forge company's works was not completed until late resterday. Search of the debris has thus far failed to discover the remains of George Miller, the night watchman, although his hat, coat, watch and chain were found in the place where he was accustomed to leave them upon retiring for the evening nap. Miller was about 75 years old, and was in the habit of carrying considerable money on his person. One theory advanced is that the old man was murdered and robbed and the building then burned to conceal the evidence of the crime.

A MESSAGE FROM HE GALE.

Listening on the Ire Floe to the Roar of the Coming Storm.

When the swell is heavy in the ice pack, it is often very difficult to ascertam from which direction it comes, and just as difficult as it is, just so important may it be that it should be found out rightly, as the safety of the ship might wholly depend upon correct judg ment as to this. When the huge ice masses begin to move and screw and press on the sides of the vessel, rising and falling in a heavy swell, then there is only one escape—uamely, to work the vessel into the fields away from the side from which the gale blows. A mistake as to the direction of the running swell has eften proved fatal, and the mistake is easily made.

An old arctic scaler told me how in hours of dread in the arctic icepack he had laid his ear down to the ice floe and listened to the roar of the coming swell —that terrible message from the furious gale-and how he thus had discovered whence the gale was pressing and had been able to save the slup from destruction. I tried his method and found that it worked admirably. What is well worth noticing is that open water nearly always is to be found in the ice pack on one side of reabergs. The icebergs that we met were generally in monon, carried coward by the rating current. Often they ran forward in the icefields at a speed of several knots, piling up the huge floes before their cold, glittering pows, but belied them they left an open sheet of water large enough for any drip Now, there would of course be many dangers for a vessel ingged along in the ice pack by such a floating monster, but I believe nevertheless that this method might be instrumental in saving a vessel from being crashed then the icefield is moving heavily .-- C E. Borengreving in Century.

The Primitive Gun.

As seen as the forces of the explosive gases developed by the burning of powder became known the old style weapons disappeared, and firearms took their places. The first of the kind was a small gun barrel fastened to a long pole and fired with a slow match. Shot stones, oalls of lead, from bolts and fireballs to set building- on fire were propelled with this apparatus. Only a short distance could be shot with these primitive guns. The old and clumsy siege machines which threw heavy stones by means of a spring tope were changed into stege guns.—Iron Age.

Hiram Lester died in the Henry county, N. C, poorhouse, Saturday night, at the great age of 129 years. He has a son ninety-two years, and an inmate of the same institution, and a daughter ninety-four years old, who lives in an adjoining county. When 125 years old, L ster, who had been in the poor house for ten years, wooed, won and married the house keeper of the institution.

Morton's missionaries are booming him as "Farmer" Morton in the west, and are said to be actually making the simple-minded grangers believe that the Governor is one of their own sort, brown and brawny, who rises at five o'clock to stir up the pigs, milks his prize cows himse.f, and follows the plow over Ellersite fertile acres in cowhide boots. It's a queer issue on which to make a presidential canvase, but is said to have been made necessary to offset "Farmer" Allison's popularity in the rural districts.

MONHAGEN BROOK LITICATION.

Citizens of Wawayanda Talk It Over With Citizens of Middletown,

At the request of the authorities of Wawayanda an informal talk over the Monhagen brook litigation was held at the Corporation Rooms, this morning. Wawayanda was represented by Messrs. Joseph S Dunning, W. E. Arnont and Mr. Clark. At the request of Corporation Attorney Wiggins, ex Mayor Boyd and Messrs. I. R. Clements and C. Macardell were present on behalf of Middletown's interests.

The matter was discussed in good temper on both sides and the several phases of the dispute were gone into at length. No decision was arrived at, for the parties to the talk were not authorized to make an agreement, but a suggestion that the whole matter might with good results be left to a board of arbitrators Wawayandaites left with the understanding that they would submit the arbitration scheme to their Lown Board of Health in whose name the suit to enjoin the city from sewering into the brook is being prosecuted.

A PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

One Partner Resolves to Go It Alono and the Other Carries Off stock and Platures.

Mesers, A. W. Smith and John Williams have been partners in a meat business at the corner of East avenue and Fulton street. Saturday, Mr. Smith, who had been left alone in the store by his partner, while the latter traveled through the country decided that the business was only large enough for one man and that he would continue to run it. He pur chased a side of boef and other stock and the partnership was to have been dissolved, this morning.

When Mr Smith went to the shop, this moining, he found that all its contents had been temoved. He applied for a warrant for Williams' arrest, but was told to seek redress in the civil courts.

A VERY INTERISTING CASE,

A Nice Point Under the Statute of Limitations-A Note Doesn't Always outlaw.

It has been supposed that a note outlaws in six years, but this does not always govern as is evidenced by a recent decision in our Surregate's Court in the settlement of the estate of Hannah P. Foster.

Among other provisions she left a fine condition. legacy of $200 to her son, Albertis A. her estate, after the death of her so delegates from Ellenville, Luberhu-band, equally among herchildren, including Albertis.

The husband died in this city, a few months ago, and proceedings were taken for the settlement of Mrs. Foster's estate before the Surrogate. It appears that at the time Mrs. Foster made her will she held a note against her son, Albertis, the note having been overdue more than six

In the executor's account filed with the Surrogate, the executor claimed that he had paid Albertis this legacy of $200 in each and claimed that Albertis was entitled to his share in the residue and claimed that the $150 note of Albertis' ought not be taken iato account as it was outlawed. Some of the children appeared before was favorably received, and the the Surrogate by Dill & Cox, their executor should be charged with the amount of the $150 note, including interest, amounting to ever $200, because he should have taken the amount out of the legacies left to Albertis by the will; that the statute of limitation did not apply in off-etring the legacies with the note when the legacies came from a party who held the note against the debtor.

The matter came before the Special Surrogate of the county, Hon. G. W. McElroy, who took the matter under advisement and has decided that while Mrs. Foster could not have maintaided action upon the note against Albertis on account of the bar in the statute, that the statute was no bar to the effecting of the note with the legacy, and that the executor must be charged with the is undoubtedly the robber. Shay sold the hotel fixtures, stock, &c., to a man named Warner, from Connecticut, on Tuesday, receiving $550, and before the townspeople were aware of the change of proprietors, Shay and his wife had driven to this city and boarded a train for New York.

There was a chattel mortgage on the fixtures of $200, of which the purchaser was not informed. The cash register and a gas stove have been se zed by their owners, and Mr. Warner now fears that everything in the place will be taken away by somebody who has a mortgage or lien upon it.

THE MAYOR'S CHANGE OF FRONT

said Last Year That the Argument Against Changing the City Election Fram apring to Fall Was ' Unanswerable "

"The argument for divorcing local affaire from State and national politics ie unanewerable." These were Mayor S'ansbury's words, a year ago, at the hearing on the bill changing the city election from epring to fall, after Mesers. W. H. Rogers, C. Macardeli and E. Millen and ex-Mayors Balley and Boyd had spoken in opposition to the change.

How comes it that an argument unan-werable a year ago has been so so answered that the Mayor is now seeking to put through the Legisla ture a measure that he was forced to acknowledge was vicious and indefensible? Is is because his official term is nearing an end and he real zes that it is by no means certain that he can secure a renomination and a great deal less cer ain that he can be re-elected if nominated?

THE ARGUS'S TWENTY-FIRST VOLUME Acver More Widely Circulated or More

Popular With the Reading Public The Daily Argus enters to-day upon its twenty first volume, and it may interest its friends to know hat it never enjoyed a wider circulation and never had a stronger hold upon the interest and good will of the reading public in Middletown and the country roundsbout. And we may add that the Argus was never prepared to battle more earnestly against encroachments on the rights of the people from any cource, to champion the principles of pure Democracy and lend all the help in its power to every movement looking to the advancement of Middle town's interests and prosperity.

Mrs. Catharine >p~liman,

Mra. Catharine Kearns, wife of Mr. Patrick A. Spellman, died vary suddenly of heart trouble at 8 45 o'clock, this morning.

She had been a sufferer for the past year, and had been under the care of a physician, but had been able to be about. She attended church, yesterday morning. This morning, she arose and dressed herself and came down stairs to the kitchen and said to her sister-in law that she felt a sense of suffocation and took some medicine, which had been I it by her physiciar, but as she did not get any relief asked that Father McClancy might be called and a messenger was dispatched at once, and Father McClancy came as soon as possible. Mrs. Spellman was then lying on a lounge and was gasping for breath and expired in a few moments.

Mrs, Spellman was about sixty five years old. She was born in Ireland and came to this country in 1846, settling in New York, where in 1864 she was married to Mr. Spellman. She came to Middletown in 1871 and resided on North street for a time, but for nineteen years has lived at the corner of Prince and Ogden streets, where she died.

The only surviving relatives except her husband are cousins who reside in New York.

Mr. Spellman, the husband of the d-ceased is, and for a long time has been helpless from paralysis. He has been a great core to his wife, who was devoted in her attentions to him, and it is probable that this may have hastened her death.

John Babcock.

Mr. John Babcock died athishome in Walton at 2 o'clock this morning of cancer of the stomach, after a lingering and painful illness. The funeral will be held at 1 p. m. on Wednesday.

Mr. Babcock was a member of the well known contracting firm of Babcock, Lary & Co., which succeeded the firm of Ward, Lary & Co., who built the Zig Zig tunnel on the O &. W. A CRITIC'S HEART.

Alfred Smithers, who was young. loved. He had loved before, but never so creditably. Ernestine Gilbert (pronounced Zheelbear) appealed as well to the better side of his nature. It was an appeal whose merits he made haste to recognize.

Until Smithers met her he had thought of marriage as a speculation, in which his friends seemed to have made absurd failures, and as a handy ending to plays which should close dramatically at or about 10:30. Smithers was-is, for that matter—a dramatic critic.

When "The Fullness of Life" was produced at the Empire, his criticism of the performance was so pleasing to the management that they put it first on the list upon the poster which was placed conspicuously in many parts of the town.

There was a personal reason for this special laudation which Smithers himself hardly suspected at the moment. He had seen his ideal in the flesh for the first time. There is in the most calculating of men a spirit of chivalry which appears unexpectedly. A pretry girl in whatever distre-s wrings the heart of any man not responsible for the distress. Smithers was sensitive to dramatic minstice, and his ideal practically was an "extra." His prerogative, within certain limits, was to discover unrecognized genius and to deprecate the recog-

"The Fullness of Life"-this piece dealt with the social problems of the day. The leading woman, an ample blond of æsthetic proportions, played the role of an adventuress of the modern type-a woman corrupt in mind and manner, but keeping her place in society and outwitting many of the good people in a discouraging fashion.

The action of the piece called for the appearance of a dressmaker's assistant. The wicked society woman is made by the dramatist to scold the girl soundly for a delay and to slap her in the face. The gul has but a single lune to speak, but it is appropriate. And it struck Smithers on the opening night of the piece that although the contrast of good little seamstress and bad big mondaine is an old one he had never seen vice and virtue more effectively compared.

The young seamstress was pretty, well formed, as virtuous as women should be to make their position convincing, and she had just that modest way of using her eyes, that gentle manner of speaking which Smithers, in his mood, liked. He was much attracted to the little seamstress. He thought perhaps he would marry her.

If he had seen her the week before, she might have impressed him less, in deed not at all. But his personal affairs suddenly had taken such a turn that he questioned the veracity of all women and rather hoped that he might die or have a serious illness.

So it came about that he hungered to know such a woman as he felt Ernestino Gilbert to be. That she was but a beginner on the ladder of fame rather added to his interest and piqued his vanity. He believed she had talent, and it would be his proud privilege to help her develop it.

These dramatic fellows are well gifted with imagination, and Smithers was Thus he wrote of the production good humoredly, even enthusiastically, as a piece which should be seen by all who are interested in the vital questions of the day.

He omitted to speak in terms of praise of the performance of the leading woman, the ample blond, and this piqued her. It Smothers honestly had explained that emission to himself, he would have said that he was annoyed because his securities, with her undoubted semanliness and talent, was forced to play so inconsequential a part, while the leading lady, who might or might not be qualified, had matters her GWH Way.

Others guessed that Miss Gilbert was poer, hyed in a hall bedroom, had a hard time to get along, and that she knew few men. She would be much gratified to find that a person of his standing took an interest in her. He resolved to call. The stage dearleeper gave him her a Phress Next day he went. It was an unassel proceeding, but Smithers argued that it would be less embarrassing for Lam to see her at her home than to send his eard to her at the the ater. Theatrie of people are so jealous of each other. They would put base monives upon his attentions.

Miss Gilbert y as in. And she pleased kipi Ingenuously she confided to him her enthusiasms, and he was charmed. His call did not seem to surprise her, but Shuthers accounted for that by her вискрепленсе.

She had been in the city but a comparatively short time, had come from the country, filled with ambition to do labors so severely tax the nervous system, as that of the ministry. a wife any man might be proud of. I

He previously had had an indefinite prejudice against blonds and sedulously had avoided incering such prominent women on the stage as he knew his duties would require him to estimate. He had thought that to know them socially would prejudice his judgment of their work.

But Eleanor Lone had sent for him. She was a widow, a shrewd woman and really a good one. The idea that a woman must be an undesirable acquaintance because she has business ability is false. Miss Lane had brains, talent and beauty.

She explained to Mr. Smithers when he called in answer to her invitation that she had always wanted to meet him and particularly after his kind notice of the play in which she was at the time appearing. Smithers had not, it will be remembered, mentioned Miss Lane in his criticism. It was with scant courtesy that he acknowledged her compliments, and when he left he compared her advances with Ernestine Gilbert's maidenly mode-ty.

Meantime Eleaner Lane's vanity had been burt by the indifference, first professional, now personal, of the critic. and she resolved to bring him to her feet. Smithers dropped in to the theater one evening not long after to renew his admiration for Miss Gilbert's talent.

But it seemed to him that she was rather absurdly lacking in force. Why did she appear so bashful? He noticed that Miss Lane played with remarkable vigor and wondered why he had not noticed it before.

After Mr. Smithers' next call upon Miss Gilbert she went to her room and eried. It was what he had not said that brought the tears. He had paid but the most formal visit, had not spoken of her future or of her present, except to ask it she were ill, or why she seemed so weak. Ernestine understood. Smithers understood too. And he hated himself. But not so deeply as to exclude the thought that he was lucky to have found it out before he had spoken of marriage. After all, the girl was only one of an enormous number, without sufficient force of character, though having some talent no doubt, who may early fail and drop from the ranks. And why should he, Smithers, throw away his life in bringing up a woman of her caliber, when the leading woman at the Empire, for instance, with her brains, her position, her respectability, had given a dozen tactful indications of being re-

It was offered to The North American Insight, but the editor returned it, with a note saying that his magazine was not intended to meet the wants of the feeble minded. A Woman Relped.

There was a discussion recently in the Scrauton (Pa.) Troth regarding the inventor of the cotton gin. The Truth quotes the testimeny of Professor J. Colton Bynes of Georgia, given some time since in the Doston Woman's Journal, as conplarive that the honor of the invention justly belongs to Mrs. Cath erme Greene. It was Eli Whitney who invented the first model of the cotton gin, while a tutor in Mrs. Greene's family. But it would not work until Mrs. Greene invented an additional appliance. AYER'S Cherry Pectoral SAVED HIS LIFE

So says Mr. T. M. Reed, a highlyrespected Merchant of Ikiddietown, Ill., of a Young Man who was supposed to be in Consum, tion.

"One of my customers, some years ago, had a son who had all years ago, had a son who had an the symptoms of consumption. The usual medicines afforded him on relief, and he steadily failed until he was unable to leave his of bed. His mother applied to me of for some remedy and I recordended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The young man took it according to directions, and soon began to improve that I be became we'll and strong."—T. M. El an, Middletown, III.

"Some time aco, I caught a se severe cold, my throat and luncs of were badly inflamed, and I had a terrible cough. It was supposed of that I was a victim of consumption, and my friends had little of hope of recovery. But I bought a bottk of Aver's Cherry Pectoral, took it, and was entirely cared. No doubt, it saved my life."—

L'Enfant Terrible.

A young man was riding down town the other evening in a Enclid avenue car. He took the front seat, and held in his hand an umbrella which had been given him as a Christmas present. On the seat facing him was a lady with a precocious infant boy, evidently about 5 years old. The youngster regarded the young man with rapt attention for a few moments, and then his eyes wandered to the umbrel a. He cared at in in silence for a second then be wriggled in his seat, clapped his hands and shouted:

"Oh marnina Doesn't that look like papa's undrella "

Every one in the car regarded the young man with a great deal of suspicion.
"Hush, hush, my child." said the mother, patting the prodige on the head. "Papa was looking for his umbrella this evening, wasn't be mamma?" continued the child wonder "Yes, yes but he found it," said the mother harriedly, as the conversation was becoming or exceeding interest to the occupants of two rows of seats.

'Why, maining," continued the youngster, ' you know he didn't. Why, you told him that he aidn't know enough to keep an umbella. Wry mamma"-At this stage the young man got up and

A Common Banger,

If you have ever had a cold which you permitted to "wear away" it may interest you to know it was a dangerous proceeding. Every cold and cough which is neglected paves the way for consumption, bronchitis, asthma or catarrh. Otto's Cure, the famous German throat and lung remedy, will cure any cough or cold and save you from consumption. Call on J. J. Chambers, 57 North street, near Post Office, and get a sample bottle free.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds New York!

Concluding Match of the Series-1 -Close and Exciting Came Won by Coodale's Fine Finish—The Scores.

The Goshen Athletic Club and the Monticello Bowling Club bowled the deciding match of a series of three at the armory alleys, in this city, Saturday evening. Although Goshen won two games out of the three played, it was by the narrowest margin, and but for the phenomenal finish by Goodale would surely have met defeat.

Monticello had a commanding lead up to the last frame and even before for a strike in his ninth frame and a break would have given the game to Monticello.

He made three more strikes in succession, running his score up to 194 and winning the game by 19 points.

A large delegation of enthusiasts was present from each of the county seats and the builting was made to spare. The 24 h boys were well represented and divided their chee:s was the most exciting ever playe i on the alleys. The score:

ATTACKED BY HUNGRY CROWS

A Town of Denning Axeman Comes Out of the Woods With a Marvelous Tele. An Ellenville newspaper is responsible for the astonishing story that Joseph Deyo, of Denning, while chopping in the woods, a few days ago, was attacked by a large flock of hungry crows, which awooped down upon him and, alighting on his head and shoulders, resked at his face with their sharp beaks. The number of crows kept steadily increasing until they overshadowed Dero like an immense cloud and their caws were deafening. At largth be realized that he must run for his life, and aropping his axe he fled for safety. The crows followed him for some discance but at last gave up the chase, but not until the blood was flowing from many wounds that their beaks had made on his face and hands.

The Monticello Team Defeated in the Town Meeting in Delaware County-Hought a Parm - Getting Well - A Reminder of "Blamond Jo" Reynoids—Effects of Electric Railroad Competition-Will sue the Railroad

Correspondence ABGUI and MERCURT. -Town meeting in Delaware county, Feb. 11th.

-Wm. Youmans, the well known blue stone dealer of Rockland, has bought a farm at Coxsackie, about two miles from the river.

-The young man Stanley Jagger, of Russell Brook, who had the mis-fortune to cut his ankle joint while stepped to the front. He had credit chopping wood is, I am pleased to say, improving surely, though improvement is necessarily slow. The ax split a piece about the s'ze of a dollar off the knuckle bone of the ankle and then sank the entire depth of the bit into the foot, making a fearful wound.

-As regular as Sunday comes the people of Rockland and for three miles around are reminded of "Diaring with the cheers of the partitals | mond Jo" Reynolds as the M. E. whenever a player made a strike or a Church bell was a present from "Diamond Jo," more than a quarter of a century ago, and is one of the finest between the visitors. The match in Sullivan county. Mr. Reynolds got his start in business at Rockland and loved to return to it and visit among his old associates, and while he was many times a millionaire was always as plain asiif he didn't have a dollar.

-The electric road is a great knocker out for the steam road whenever it comes into competition with it. This fact was never better illustrated than by the trolley road bstween Carbondale and Scranton. When the O. and W. branch was put through it required not less than eight trains a day to accommodate the travel between the two cities, but with the trolley in operation on the same side of the river as the O. and W. one passenger train a day each way is amply sufficient.

-Those who claim to know say that the young man. Ed. Kenice, who was struck by the milk train going north, about a month ago at Rickland, will bring an action against railroad company for damages in the sum of $3,000. As the whistle was blown and the man warned of danger should be attempt to cross there does not seem to be any ho k on which to hang a claim for damages, but yet it is difficult to tell what will be the outcome of such a matter when properly manipulated by the legal fraternity.
